artworks in various media by German artist

Fabian Freese

This is a truly international exhibition coming to Gallery M, featuring the art of German artist Fabian Freese. His works include contemporary minimalist paintings, 'lightpainting photography' and mixed media. Fabian is also travelling to Adelaide for the launch of his exhibition. "I think it's very important to communicate and network with other artists about their works and also speak about my own work" he says.

Fabian was born in 1982 in Wuppertal and lives in Germany. He spent a large part of his childhood in nature, playing with wood and water, which influenced his sense of beauty and aesthetics.

When he was a teenager he developed some experience by doing Graffiti. Today he works with time exposure photography to create his 'lightpaintings' with LED lights, explaining "It's like a surreal light installation which only exists after the camera processing of the photo. When I print these photos, you can see a result that nobody could see in this moment I walked there with the lights. It's a bit like composing the environment and reacting on it."

Fabian also works on different painting series, feeling that contemporary art and living artists are a main part of culture in many countries of the world. He believes that open minded thinking artists like him or others can change things in a more positive way.

Freese studied visual Arts in Essen, Germany, and graduated in 2011. Since then his artworks have been exhibited in countries across Europe, America and Asia. Earlier this year he had an exhibition in Manhattan, New York; and was represented in Art Fairs in Germany, England and Spain.
